ADVENTURES OF TARG

HAT TRICK ME ONCE
SHAME ON ME
HAT TRICK ME TWICE
SHAME ON THREE

GAME: TETRIS

YEAR: ATARI 1988

RANK: ★★★★★

Atari has always tried to stimulate the mind in the video game world, with games like Centipede (1980), Super Sprint (1986), and Millipede (1985). But the game of Tetris might be Atari's best work as far as the '80's era is concerned.

Here in Tetris, your brain and mind must be one as you work on this puzzle oriented game. Your goal: form lines as you connect certain pieces of your "puzzle" together. You have six individual pieces to connect and put together during your wave (more on that in a moment). Once you form a line, it disappears, and the rest of the puzzle drops. You must keep building lines before you reach the top of your bracket or the game ends.

Each stage has three waves each, and in each wave you must complete a certain amount of lines to move on to the next wave. Do not take too long or a Russian Cossack comes out and watches you impatiently. If you take too long and your game finishes, the Cossack will throw his hat down and stalk away.

Your pieces of your Tetris are as follows, a blue-crooked piece, an orange crooked piece, a long red piece, a purple shaped L piece, a yellow shaped L piece, a blue box, and a green piece that looks like a T. Use these pieces to build your line. Ifs lines or more disappear, it's called a TETRIS.

Finally, your stages will include you building around blocks, or extra blocks or lines will be added. If you finish three waves, it means you have completed the stage and a bonus will be added to your score. Also, the Cossack will appear and dance for you. See you next month, gamers!

ABOUT PROFESSOR BERNIE
- VIDEO GAME PHD.

He's a TARG fixture & can be found at the TVs watching his beloved Senators or rippin' it up on Classic Vid Games. He's a bit of a "chip-nut" so bring him a bag of All-Dressed and he might give you some valuable vid tips in exchange.

WE ARE THE ROBOTS

The Terminator appears on the cover of this 53rd issue of TARG zine as a reminder that SKYNET became self aware at 2:14 a.m., EDT, on August 29. The Terminator movies all have a dystopic vision of technology but don't let that depress you... there are lots of nice robots out there that are eager to make the world a more positive place.....

THE ROCK-AFIRE EXPLOSION

In the early 80's the dude who invented Whack-a-mole put together a band of robotic anthropomorphized animals to bewilder and entertain folks of all ages at over 40 Showbiz Pizza Place locations across the USA. They would perform medleys of classic rock, pop, and country music, as well as original compositions and comedic skits. Better than the real thing! Check out the Rock-afire Explosion documentary for the full scoop.

CAPTURED! BY ROBOTS

If you like your Robot bands to have a little more grit then the grind core band Capture By Robots is definitely up your alley. 2 robots, GTRBOT666 and DRMBOT0110, and the human slave Jbot make up the group. Too unusual and amazing to explain here.....-GOOOOOOGLE IT

ASAHI BEERBOT

This amazing creating can pour a perfect glass of beer....well sort of, more like the foamiest most time consuming glass of beer of all time but hey it's a robot pouring you a beer.

ROOMBA HACK

Unfortunately the Asahi Beerbot is only trained to work with Japanese 350ml can - so why not put a beer on your less intelligent North American Roomba and let it find you? Not as sophisticated but it will make you feel like you are drinking in the future.

SISTERS IN THE CITY

INTERVIEWS WITH
Inspirational Women in the Ottawa Arts, Business & Entertainment Scene

BY: WIZARD SHEILA

AN INTERVIEW WITH

MARIA-HÉLÈNE PACELLI

BORN: Beaconsfield, Québec

JOB TITLE(S): visual artist/women's rights activist & musician

Maria-Hélène is a Montreal-born multit talented artist and musician. With a bachelor's degree in Fine Arts from Concordia, she is honing her craft as a visual artist. She also has a master's degree in Women's Studies from OttawaU, and has been an ally for women from all walks of life.

WHAT DOES A TYPICAL WORK DAY ENTAIL FOR YOU?

I am a multipassionate artist, so I tend to be involved in a variety of things at any given moment. There is not really a typical day for me, although I do work a day job in communications where most of what I do is social media, and a significant portion of my work as an artist entails following and engaging on social media, or organizing logistics via email or online so I'm usually not very far from my phone which, let's face it, is my portable pocket office.

TELL US ABOUT A PROJECT OR ACCOMPLISHMENT THAT YOU CONSIDER TO BE SIGNIFICANT IN YOUR CAREER.

One of my most significant accomplishments was completing my album of original songs, Stories the land will tell in 2016. It was my first major solo project as a singer-songwriter and not only was it my biggest artistic challenge but it happened at a time in my life when many things weren't going the way I had wanted them to. I faced some of my biggest life hardships of all kinds and had never been so determined to bring a project to completion. I'm very proud that I was able to pull it off.

WHAT DO YOU LIKE MOST ABOUT WORKING IN YOUR INDUSTRY?

As an artist who works in many disciplines, I love being immersed in a variety of subcultures and scenes. Aside from my album, I've also produced and written an original screenplay, been part of a number of theatrical productions as an actor and am also a visual artist. The beauty of being an artist is that you don't have to be confined to one medium.

WHAT ARE YOU WORKING ON RIGHT NOW?

I currently have a solo exhibit showing at Arbor Gallery in Vankleek Hill for the month of August and I've just sent a piece to the UK for an exhibition as my first internationally exhibited work.

HOW DO YOU BEST SEEK OUT OPPORTUNITIES FOR NEW PROJECTS?

I am on a few mailing lists with local art councils as well as arts organizations that send out calls, and I also keep an eye out on social media. Sometimes I find out about things through word of mouth. I'm always on the lookout for my next opportunity to create something and share it with others.

HOW DO YOU KEEP UP WITH THE LATEST NEWS IN YOUR LINE OF WORK?

I read blogs, talk to other artists, follow social media and pay attention to whatever I can. It's hard to always be up to speed in every field since I work a full-time job and produce art in a number of different spheres but the most important thing is not necessarily being up to date in each arena. It's being true to my creative direction and where it's taking me to expand my horizons and inspire others.

WHAT WOULD YOU TELL SOMEONE ABOUT TO START A CAREER IN YOUR FIELD?

The world needs you. If you've ever been moved by an experience of art, you know that it can change lives. Imagine if that artist had held back because they were unsure of themselves? There might be people out there desperately waiting to be touched by you. Creativity is an awesome power and if we can get past our insecurities, then we can meet that responsibility and share that gift with those who need it most.

WINONA RYDER FILM FESTIVAL THROUGHOUT AUGUST!

We pride ourselves in having a nice array of diversity in our cinematic presentations, movies from around the globe from all sorts of different filmmakers, actors, and talent. Nonetheless, despite ongoing baby steps in the right direction, Hollywood still does have a focus on films produced by old white guys. We've had mini-festivals in the past focusing on Spielberg, Scorsese, Kubrick, Hitchcock, but were guilty on not having one focused on a woman yet. So, throughout August we are happy to present a wide range of beloved late 80's / mid 90's offerings (dark comedy, fantastical, gothic horror, romantic drama), all featuring the talented Winona Ryder. If you are someone of a slightly younger age, who is only familiar with her great Golden Globe nominated performance from Stranger Things, be sure not to miss out on this chance to appreciate her talents on the big screen.

HEATHERS - August 6th & 7th - Independent Spirit Awards: Best First Feature winner!

EDWARD SCISSORHANDS - August 13th & 14th - Hugo Awards: Best Dramatic Presentation winner!

BRAM STOKER'S DRACULA - August 20th & 21st - Academy Awards: Best Costume Design, Make-up, and Sound Effects Editing winner!

REALITY BITES - August 27th & 28th - Texas Film Critics Awards: Lone Star Award winner!

Dear Slo - money is super tight these days. I have heard you one cheap bastard and really know how to stretch a dollar. Got any free tips for me? Signed, Ty Twad

HEY TY TWAD: Yup you have come to the right place. I'm the kinda guy that has rubber pockets so I can steal soup, I mean I'm so cheap I don't leave the doctor's office until I get the deposit back on the urine sample bottle, I find it so difficult to relinquish my hard earned cash that I opted for the wind up pacemaker, I'm so frugal, that years ago, I grew 6 foot dreadlocks just to avoid shelling out at the barber... so ya I have some tips for you.

This penny pinching scam requires a bit of an upfront investment but will quickly payout... If you purchase a Rideau Centre Food Court Attendant uniform you can "clean up" on all that unfinished grub in the new fancy dining hall. Your perfect disguise will allow full access so you can chow down with impunity - no one will ever question your authority... sure they will judge you for eating used food but you'll be the one laughing all the way to the bank.

One area you can't afford to not skimp on is hygiene. There are so many little shortcuts that can save you big dollars. For example buying shampoo AND conditioner is an almost Alex Jones level conspiracy - here's the deal, there are only 2 kinds of hair: greasy & dry, sooooo if you have greasy hair just use shampoo if you have dry brittle hair just use conditioner - only foolish shoppers get duped into buying both... cha ching you just saved some dough.

Hey, we all like going to arcades like TARG but it can get expensive if you suck at pinball like me - so why not just find yourself a trusted currency exchange broker to convert your loonies and quarters for lesser coins like a Burmese Pya, or a Uzbekistan Tiyin or a Bangladesh paisa or better yet some North Korean chons? You'll get more bang for your buck. *Disclaimer - those coins rarely work in the machine plus this is the most repugnant arcade crime going and is punishable by life long banishment, public shaming & boots to the head.

So Ty Twad, the key here is to be fiscally responsible & creative but sometime you gotta loosen up those purse strings to preserve your dignity or you end up cheating others & ultimately yourself.

ALBUM REVIEWS BY FELIX

BIB - MOSHPIT

Popwig Records

Released: December, 2017

BIB don't waste any time. Not in their name, not in the titles of their EPs, and certainly not in their music. They boil down a lot of the elements we all love about hardcore and Bib-ify them - making you scratch your head as to how you didn't come up with one of their riffs first, but celebrating that they finally did what we've all been wanting and needing in a band.

On MOSHPIT, Bib tones down the noise of their previous 3 releases in favour of a cleaner tone, and leaner, meaner riffs. This was probably a good call, because when listening to their previous 7", POP, I wasn't sure how much more blown out things could get. This was explored a bit on their two song tape, "The Face", but is fully realized here. The vocals are also toned down a touch, and aren't constantly coming at you from all directions anymore. On Moshpit Bib let themselves relax and let the songs speak for themselves without all the window dressing (as much fun as that can be). Not everything needs to be completely distorted and reverbed beyond recognition, and not every hardcore EP needs to start with a feedback squeal.

It'd get kinda monotonous if they all did. Between the EP's piano intro followed by tight and potent riffs, and the near folk punk beginning to the second song, combined with the overall different sound here, Bib are definitely trying a few new things while still having the tightly crafted riffs that we already know and love. It's a subtle indication that they aren't content to rest on their laurels, and I can't wait to see what they bring to the table next.

Looking to rock a summer slam at the House of Targ? Come catch BIB on tour along with Toronto's hottest new hardcore outfit, SCORPIO RISING, plus locals DOXX and TORPOR. Not one to be missed, especially for fans of contemporary punk & hardcore. The show is 19+, but a certain amount of all ages tickets will be available at the door, just message the PRISM Facebook page and get your name on the list for underage folks looking to rock.
