GAME: ELEVATOR ACTION

YEAR: TAHO 1983

RANK: ★★★★★

Taito really struck it back in the day with Elevator Action, a spy game that really set the tone for other spy genres, including Spy Hunter (83), Secret Service (1988), Rolling Thunder (1987), and Secret 'S' Spy (1989).

In Elevator Action, you play Agent 17 (Code Name: Otto), and your job is to liberate top secret documents from a 30-story maximum security building, using elevators and escalators at your disposal. Sounds easy enough, if not for the enemy spies dressed in black trying to stop you! Otto, however, is handy with a gun. Shoot the well-dressed bad guys while riding in the elevator. You can even shoot out the light to make the halls temporarily dark, giving you an added advantage because you'll see the baddies exiting the room before they see you.

On certain floors, Agent 17 will spot a room with a red door. The secret documents are inside. Otto will enter the room and exit as quickly, meaning he has the file. You will receive 500 points for each document secured. Otto has to collect all the classified files or he can't escape.

Also, on certain floors, there are no elevators, only escalators. To make Otto ascend, move the joystick right, left and up. For Agent 17 to descend, go right, left, then down.

An alarm will sound if Otto takes too long trying to secure all the documents. The enemy spies will be more aggressive during this scenario as Agent 17 tries to pull off his escape. When he reaches the basement's garage, Otto gets into a car and rides off. A 1000-point bonus is awarded for all documents secure and the getaway is successful.

Happy Canada Day, gamers! See you next month!

MIXING IT UP!

An Interview With ANTHONY CARDOZO: curator of SIDE BY SIDE WEEKEND Ottawa's Newest Indie Music Fest. - Interview by Felix Lahlabi-Granger

ABOUT ANTHONY - Born & raised in Ottawa. Started playing in bands when he was about 15. Currently works as the booker & event coordinator for Black Squirrel Books, hosts a radio show at CHUO and tries to attend as many shows as he can. His indie music festival #SBSWKND takes place July 25-28 @ TARG & Black Squirrel Books.

WHEN DID YOU FIRST GET THE IDEA FOR SIDE BY SIDE WEEKEND?

Well, through volunteering and working for Ottawa Explosion over a number of years I was super inspired to book a fest. It was maybe three or four years ago that I started thinking about it but I wasn't sure how to do it, or had felt I had the confidence or connections to do it. After the first Side by Side gig, when Yogi and I first started talking about teaming up to do that one off gig I thought, we're neighbors, this one off gig makes a lot of sense, we'll see how this goes, maybe do a few more and maybe this will be the model for a fest. That was I guess in November of last year when I really seriously started considering it.

YOU HAVE PEOPLE FROM DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE OTTAWA SCENE LIKE CHUO, OTTAWA SHOWBOX, PRISM, FIRST CRUSH & SOTO CO-PRESENTING PARTS OF THE FEST. WHERE DID YOU GET THAT IDEA, AND HOW HAVE THE CO-PRESENTERS RESPONDED? HOW WILL WE BE ABLE TO SEE THEIR CONTRIBUTIONS?

First and foremost each of the co-presenters will be adding a band to the bill they co-present so that right there is a pretty tangible manifestation of their involvement. The response from all of them has been amazing, I'm super jazzed that all of them were down to be part of this. They're all lovely people and put on really awesome shows and do a lot of great work in various pockets. Everybody's interests kind of overlap genre wise, these are all people who were involved in Ottawa Explosion to varying extents, and that's where I got the idea to do that because that's what made Explosion so cohesive and galvanizing for independent punk & punk adjacent music in Ottawa. The spirit of collaboration over competition is something that Explosion cemented in me. I'd be remiss to not at least mention the importance of Ottawa Explosion to the city overall but to me and the co-presenters and the whole approach to this festival.

WHEN YOU STARTED PUTTING TOGETHER THE FEST, WHAT KIND OF SOUNDS DID YOU WANT TO CAPTURE OVER THE COURSE OF A COUPLE OF DAYS?

There's a lot. I always frequently struggle with over-committing and I always want to do everything all the time. It was at Ottawa Explosion that I fell in love with garage rock and powerpop so I definitely wanted to get some of that stuff - Big School for example. Definitely some hardcore too, I've been finding that one of the most enthusiastic and nurturing scenes has been DIY hardcore where there's the most people going out to each other's shows and the most people consistently supporting each other's bands and small bands, and is the one pocket where I've seen people giving the most to one another, so I definitely wanted some of that too.

IS THERE ANYTHING YOU ALREADY KNOW YOU WANT TO INCLUDE IN A FUTURE SECOND EDITION OF SIDE BY SIDE WEEKEND?

I often get pretty ahead of myself and am definitely already thinking about doing this again next year because there's just so many bands that I want to show people, and so many bands that I wanted to book because there's only two venues and so many days, and because of those logistical constraints I can't get in that far over my head. I think it would be cool to have next year's co-presenters book an entire bill and really amp up that collaboration. I'm really stoked that everybody was down to help push a bill and add to it, but I think it would take that collaboration a step farther to have all those folks curate an entire bill.

WHAT IS ONE HIGHLIGHT OF THE OTTAWA SCENE YOU WANT TO SHARE, AND WHAT DO YOU THINK IS ONE THING WE CAN WORK TO IMPROVE ON AS A SCENE?

DIY punk. There's so many lovely, supportive people who do a lot of hard work booking shows, or playing in a thousand bands, or putting on shows at their house. That's huge that anyone does that, inviting crowds of strangers and the public into their home to see some punk bands. DIY punk in Ottawa is killer and I hope that never changes.

One thing I hope to do through Side by Side Weekend is to take bands that don't sound the same but know each other and put them on bills together, or just to more regularly have mixed bills in Ottawa. We've been talking about different pockets of the scene and if there's a hardcore band with friends who come to their shows, and an indie band with friends who come to shows, there's a lot of room for bridging those gaps.

What's Spinnin' At Meow! That's Hot?

Claw-some Canadian wax from the not so distant past reviewed by Larry

AVERAGE TIMES SELF-TITLED DEBUT

Hosehead Records, 2015

Recorded and mixed by Yogi at the Meatlocker
Mastered by Ian Showalter

Summer seems to have arrived, so let's enjoy the next two weeks before it's too hot to breathe! This LP from Average Times, recorded in 2013 and released in 2014, is the perfect soundtrack for your summer roadtrips, BBQs and cottage hangs.

These thirteen tracks feature a lineup of Tim Ostler (bass, vox), Todd Faux (guitar, vox), Curtis Delaney (guitar, vox), and Steph Herman (drums, vox). Between them, these fine folks have been part of about a million Ottawa-based bands, including Voicemail, Uranium Comeback, Million Dollar Marxists, Mother's Children, Savage Crimes, etc. and are a big part of the history of the capital's music scene over the past decade or two.

If you are familiar with any of the bands listed above, or with Hosehead Records, you might expect this disc to fall squarely in the garage/punk genre, and you would be correct! These are catchy tunes propelled by a relentless rhythm section that keeps the three chord (sometimes more!) compositions rocking. Guitars supply some great hooks, without many real solos to speak of, but lots of interesting melodic lines and tricky bits to keep things interesting. Vocals are a mix of gang-style and call and response, and there are earworms everywhere on the record. This is singalong stuff, friends, perfect for driving, chilling, or warming up for a big night out.

As far as what these guys remind me of, well, they have nailed the garage/punk sound we already talked about, and I also hear a bit of some of my favourites from the 80s, like Dik van Dykes and Dead Milkmen (though a touch more serious than those jokers), and I also thought of this being something like a cleaned up Banditas, a great local outfit that we will get to eventually in these pages.

The band has had a lineup change or two, and released a follow-up album titled "Seconds" just last year. They have both albums available on Bandcamp, as well as a video for "Wasted on Wine", a standout track from the debut. From my extensive three minutes of research for this column, it appears that 500 copies of this LP were pressed, so you could get lucky and stumble across one around town. If you do, get that wallet out and make it the soundtrack for your best summer ever!

Larry is one of the owners of Meow! That's Hot Kitchen + Bar at 519 Bank St., where they feature local products and spin Canadian vinyl all day, every day. He also performs bass duties with local hardcore heroes Slim and Popular, and rockers Thunderuncle.

LAURA COLLINS

OCCUPATION: MARKETING DIRECTOR AT REBEL 101.7

If anyone lives by the TARG motto "NeverGiveUp"... it's gotta be media phenom LAURA COLLINS. Her passion for music and years of relentless exploration of photography eventually paid off by securing a challenging interdisciplinary role at Ottawa's premier mainstream rock station Rebel 101.7. Laura not only handles the Marketing & Social Media at the station but she also provides on air content, produces a podcast & is also a kick ass rock photographer to boot. Yep if ROCK is happening somewhere it the city... Laura is most likely close by!

When I moved to Canada, I had to completely reinvent myself professionally. I sort of accidentally ended up working in staffing and recruiting, which then led to a job in non-profit sector working with at-risk youth. I've had a passion for both music and photography all my life, and when I wasn't at work, I spent as much time as possible doing both. I started my photography business eight years ago doing weddings and family shoots. A few years ago I started taking photos at friend's bands' shows, and ended up shooting and writing concert reviews and artist/band interviews for a couple of music publications. Since then I've been very fortunate to shoot big festivals and arena shows! My work caught the eye of the Programming Director of the local Rock Radio station Rebel 101.7, and they contacted me for a job opportunity. I've now worked for the station as their Promotions and Marketing Director since January.

I do pretty much everything, hah! I'm the point of contact for the promoters and partners for different on-air promos and contests, and I create all the schedules for our on-air announcers and make sure the promos are executed smoothly. I take care of our website and all of our social media and million other things! I also have my own little segment on air on Mondays called 'Through the Lens', in which I let listeners know about upcoming Ottawa-Gatineau shows, and I co-host 'Heavy In Ottawa' podcast with my buddy James Reid, which comes out twice a month on the Rebel website. And I get to go to concerts and festivals to take photos all the time through my job, can't get any better!

TELL US ABOUT A PROJECT OR ACCOMPLISHMENT THAT YOU CONSIDER TO BE SIGNIFICANT IN YOUR CAREER.

For years I knew there was something else out there besides a desk job for me. All my jobs in the past gave me really valuable experience, but I wanted to do something more creative. I had no idea even where to start to combine all my skills and strengths and make it a full time, creative job. Turns out that I was already working towards it without even realizing. I worked my ass off for years, doing gigs for free and made sure to constantly learn something new. I'm proud of myself for never giving up even when I was so tired I could barely remember my own name.

I love everything about my job and this industry. I get to work with an amazing team, and meet really cool people every day. Not to mention I listen to my favourite music all day, and I get to go to shows and take photos a few times a week. Can't complain!

In this industry you have to constantly keep up to date on the new upcoming bands and artists and music industry news. I spend way too much time online checking out music news and keeping track of bands' tours. And the best way of finding new bands is to go to smaller local shows. I've found so many new favourite bands that way and some of them have ended up on our playlist at Rebel!.

WHAT WOULD YOU TELL SOMEONE ABOUT TO START A CAREER IN YOUR FIELD?

There are no coincidences in life, and nothing falls on your lap for free. Success comes when you work hard for what you want, there's no easy way in. But when you do what you love, the rewards are endless.

WHERE CAN WE FIND YOU ONLINE?

You can find my most updated music/concert photos on Instagram @ljcshutter, and my other work at @laurajasminephoto. 'Heavy In Ottawa' -podcast can be found at www.rebel1017.com

WORKING GIRLS!

WOMEN DIRECTORS FILM FESTIVAL: RETRO 1980s EDITION!

Hollywood has never been an easy world to break into for women directors. Although ongoing steps are being made in the right direction in the entertainment industry for more diverse voices to have a place to tell stories, it's always an uphill battle for women on the front-lines of film-making. We recently hosted a trio of late 1940s / early 1950s drive-in classic B-pictures from the trailblazing Ida Lupino, and we've screened current offerings like Olivia Wilde's Booksmart, and Sophie Huber's Blue Note Records: Beyond the Notes. We are always pleased to be able to showcase women-in-film.

Throughout July, make sure to join us at the Mayfair as we present a quartet of diverse cinematic offerings directed by a batch of pioneering women directors of that far off era of the 1980s!

DEAR READERS: THE SUMMER ENTERTAINING SEASON IS UPON US. HERE ARE SOME SLO' TOM APPROVED TIPS THAT COULD MAKE YOU THE HOST WITH THE MOST.

DEAR SLO' TOM: I WANT TO HAVE A PARTY! YOU'VE GOT A REPUTATION FOR THROWING ONE HELL OF A SHINDIG. GOT ANY TIPS? THANKS! – THANKS, PARTYHEARTY

DEAR PARTYHEARTY: Yeah I know a thing or two about hosting a bash. Here's some helpful hints you should follow to make sure your 'do is a success:

#1 Don't clean up BEFORE the party. This is the biggest mistake people make. Why spend a bunch of time cleaning up when your idiot friends are just gonna track dog shit all over your carpet and then puke in your hallway? If you don't want people seeing how filthy your personal habits are... DON'T INVITE THEM!

#2 Hide all your drugs. Go through your medicine cabinet and remove any temptations. This is so obvious I shouldn't even have to mention it.

#3 If you're on a budget, place empty plates and bowls with crumbs and used napkins in noticeable locations. Your guests will be impressed that you provided food! They'll just assume it was gone by the time they got there. Kaaa - ching!

#4 If you really want to make your bash memorable, why not have a "theme"? It's always fun to tell half your guests one theme, and the other half another! When some of your friends turn up in swimsuits and flip flops for the 'pool party' and then the other half arrive in tuxes and gowns for the "formal dinner"... why, hilarity ensues!

I hope these suggestions help make your soiree a success! Best of luck, PARTYHEARTY

DEAR MR. SLO' TOM: I HAVE TO ATTEND A WORK FUNCTION AND I'M EXPECTED TO MAKE A TOAST. I HAVE NO IDEA WHAT TO SAY. I WANT IT TO BE CLEVER AND ORIGINAL AND MEMORABLE. SOMETHING THAT WILL SHOW

MY BOSS I CAN RUB SHOULDERS WITH THE MOVERS AND SHAKERS, YOU KNOW? DO YOU HAVE ANY SUGGESTIONS? SIGNED – TOASTMASTER

DEAR TOASTMASTER: Thanks for your question. The ability to give a great toast at important work or social functions can make or break a career. You are wise to come to me for advice. Here's some clever cheers that will definitely impress your boss:

"Here's to hell... may our stay there be as enjoyable as our way there!"

"For every wound, a balm. For every sorrow, cheer. For every storm, a calm. For every thirst, a beer."

"Here's to a long life and a happy one, a quick death and an easy one. A pretty girl and an honest one, a cold beer and another one"

"Here's to the kisses we've snatched... and vice versa!"

Armed with these witty cheers you're sure to be the 'toast' of the evening! Good luck, ToastMASTER.

DEAR MR. SLO' TOM: WHENEVER I HAVE A PARTY, SOME OF MY GUESTS OVERSTAY THEIR WELCOME. I'LL BE READY TO SHUT

IT DOWN AROUND MIDNIGHT BUT THEY'LL HANG OUT UNTIL 2 OR 3 A.M. GETTING ALL HAMMERED, BLASTING THE TUNES, AND KEEPING THE WHOLE NEIGHBOURHOOD AWAKE! I LOVE HAVING PARTIES, BUT HOW CAN I AVOID THEM GOING ALL NIGHT? PLEASE HELP ME TOM! YOU KNOW ABOUT THESE THINGS. THANKS - SIGNED MIDNIGHT(NOTALLNIGHT!)

DEAR MIDNIGHT(notALLNIGHT!): You want to shut down a party? No problem. Here's what to do...

#1 Lock the front door and open the back door. People will tend to flow out but not back in.

#2 Discreetly remove all the booze from the fridge and hide it. Don't miss any.

#3 Go to your electrical fuse box (it's usually in the basement). Turn off the big circuit breaker that says "MAIN". It's usually marked "100 amps". When the lights suddenly go out and the music stops people will be momentarily surprised but they'll still hang around a little bit (especially if they are talking with someone potentially "doable"). It's when they see the empty fridge that they'll start thinking about last call at the Dirty Oak and invite their new friend for a nightcap.

Follow these three simple steps and you'll have an empty house and be sawing logs by 1 a.m. Party on, MIDNIGHTnotALLNIGHT
